

AGGRAVATED DUI/ RECKLESS HOMICIDE INFORMATION SHEET

Office of the Secretary of State DEPARTMENT OF ADMINISTRATIVE HEARINGS

Additional forms may be obtained at www.cyberdriveillinois.com

Anyone convicted of reckless homicide or aggravated DUI involving a fatality is not eligible to apply for reinstatement of driving privileges for two years from the date of the revocation. If an offender is imprisoned as a result of the reckless homicide conviction or aggravated DUI involving a fatality, no driving relief of any kind is available, including a Restricted Driving Permit (RDP), for 24 months from the date of release from prison. No hearing will be conducted until on or after the eligibility date to be considered for driving relief.

IMPORTANT: Illinois residents may not have a formal hearing for driving relief until on or after their eligibility date; out-of-state residents may not apply for driving relief until on or after their eligibility date, as defined herein.

In order to establish the date of release from prison, a certified document(s) from the judicial system and/or Department of Corrections must be submitted. These documents must show, at a minimum, the: 1) conviction for aggravated DUI/reckless homicide, 2) date imprisoned, 3) date of release, and 4) terms of release for the aggravated DUI/reckless homicide sentence. Any request for a formal hearing for driving relief must include the above document(s) or the request will be returned and no hearing will be scheduled.

Once a hearing is scheduled, if you are or were on parole/probation for this offense, you also must submit at the hearing a current dated letter from your parole/probation officer. The letter should indicate whether you have been and are in compliance with your terms and whether there are any restrictions regarding your mobility and/or ability to drive a motor vehicle.

Additional documentation may be required at the time of your formal hearing depending on the individual circumstances of your case. Information regarding these requirements may be obtained from the informal hearing officer.

I have read and understand the above information. The informal hearing officer who signed below and advised me of this information was available to answer any questions I had regarding the requirements for a hearing and the hearing process.
